The University is located in the heart of the city center of Limassol.

INTRODUCTION TO LIMASSOL

Limassol is located between the ancient towns of Amathus and Curium. It is believed that Limassol was built after the destruction of Amathus in 1191. However, the town was inhabited since 2000 BC and other remains date back to the 8th and 4th century BC. The official record of the town's history starts in 1191 when Richard the Lionheart, his fiancée Berengaria and his sister Ioanna stopped in Limassol after a storm. There, Richard took over the island from the Isaac Comnenus, the Byzantine governor and later he married Berengaria crowning her Queen of England in Cyprus after destroying Amathus and moving all the residents to Limassol.

Since then, Cyprus was passed on to Templars, Franks and Germans until 1489 when it was sold to Venice. Around that time the Limassol Castle was destroyed and Cyprus was under a deep economic depression described by poverty and high taxes. In 1570 it was the Turks' turn to occupy and in 1878 the British's. After that period the first telegraph office, post office and hospital began operation. Schools, theaters, galleries, music halls, sports facilities and clubs brought development of the intellectual and cultural life.

Due to the port, Limassol had to opportunity to become one of the largest ports in East Mediterranean. Also, after the Turkish invasion 1974 many refugees from Famagusta moved to Limassol which helped the town expand rapidly concerning tourism with luxury hotels, restaurants and entertainment. Today, the town has become a center of commerce and business.

Tourist Attractions Historical & Archeological Monuments

Limassol is positioned between two of the most important historic citykingdoms, Amathus to the east and Kourion to the west. The city has the largest coastal resort on the island and thus became the central port of Cyprus. Some of the attractions are listed below, however Limassol has many hidden places worth to visit!

Amathus Archeological east of Limassol is one of the biggest ancient kingdoms of Cyprus, Amathus. It was an important city because of its port, which exported copper & timber. Amathus is built on the cliffs with amazing views of the sea and where historical artifacts of at least 3000 years are laid there.

Kolossi Castle a fine example of military architecture originally constructed in the 13th century and subsequently rebuilt in its present form in the middle of the 15th century. The solid construction proved able to protect the castle through the ages, from the many earthquakes that happened in the area and most importantly through the stormy historic events of Cyprus, it provided security.

Kourion the second important ancient kingdom in Limassol where excavations continue to reveal impressive new treasures. Noted particularly for its magnificent Greco – Roman Theatre, Kourion is also proud home to stately villas with exquisite mosaic floors and an early Christian Basilica among other treasures. The city is built on the tip of the mountain with a breathtaking view of the sea.

The Castle of Limassol is located at the west end of the sea-front behind the old port, within the old town of Limassol. Originally, the castle stood on the seashore beside the river Garyllis; but the river altered its course in the 16th century and is now 100 yards further west. Excavations within the Castle revealed a marble podium from an early Christian basilica and the floor of a Middle Byzantium monument dated from the 10th or 11th century. A great place to visit and walk through the old town where its medieval looking buildings take you to a different era.

TIPPING

Tipping is generally at the discretion of the customer, however, it is usual to leave a 10% tip for taxi drivers and in restaurants. It is not customary to tip bar staff. With regard to hotels, it is normal to leave €1 to €2 a day.

DRIVING ON THE LEFT

Like in the UK, in Cyprus, you drive on the left hand side of the right. What's more, because of the influence of the UK in Cyprus, many of the road signs are similar, as are the traffic lights system. For non-UK Incoming Staff please be careful while crossing the road.

ELECTRICITY IN CYPRUS

Electricity in Cyprus is the same as the UK – 240 volts, with a 3-pin electrical plug socket. Please bring an adaptor with you if your plug is not a 3-pin

SMOKING BAN

There is a smoking ban in Cyprus, which means that you cannot smoke inside buildings. Most hotels and restaurants have designated smoking areas.

WEATHER

Despite what you might have heard, we do joke that you can experience all four seasons in one day in Cyprus! June is known for its warm sunshine although at night it is advisable that you carry a light jacket with you! The average temperature in June is 30-35°C. Please keep a hat in your personal belongings at all times and a bottle of water to refresh yourself, as temperatures during the day might be too warm!
